A modest request for a contribution to SCORAI

Dear all,

$50 (or a little more) for SCORAI is not a big sacrifice if you consider that all you have to give up is an acquisition of a towel warmer for $130 at Sharper Image or the $80 cordless power salt and pepper mills with LED illumination.

ICYMI – In Case You Missed It

This blog collects responses from an interesting thread on the listserv

Does individual action have a role to play in changing the system of consumption?

Listserv thread initiated by Venessa Timmer October-November 2021 in response to a questionnaire on whether people are willing to change their lifestyles

www.theguardian.com/environment/2021/nov/07/few-willing-to-change-lifestyle-climate-survey

Citizens are alarmed by the climate crisis, but most believe they are already doing more to preserve the planet than anyone else, including their government, and few are willing to make significant lifestyle changes. Widespread awareness of the importance of the climate crisis has yet to be coupled with a proportionate willingness to act. Respondents to an international survey were lukewarm about doing more themselves, citing a wide range of reasons. Most (76%) of those surveyed across 10 countries said they would accept stricter environmental rules and regulations,

Recordings

All webinars will be recorded and published on the website afterwards.

SCORAI continues to organize monthly webinars. From now on, registration is no longer necessary; the zoom link suffices to connect. We will operate in zoom call format; so all participants can see each other; and questions are more easily moderated. We hope this will also reinforce the social function of these webinars, i.e. SCORAI members meeting each other remotely.
